THOUSANDS HOMELESS IN RAGING MIDWEST FLOODS

CHICAGO — Thousands of persons remained homeless as swollen Midwestern rivers continue their rampage. Flood levels receded along the Big and Little Sioux Rivers in the Dakotas and Iowa, and along the west and east forks of the Des Moines River. The Souris River poses another threat to Minot, North Dakota — where 3,000 persons already had been evacuated. Army engineers say another 4,000 will have to leave their homes before tomorrow, when a 22-foot crest is expected. The James River and its branches started receding in Jamestown, North Dakota, where 450 families were evacuated. The Weather Bureau says another low pressure system is moving up from the Gulf States into the Midwest with widespread precipitation.

Nixon Prepares New Budget

WASHINGTON — President Nixon is putting final touches on his amendments to the budget submitted to Congress by former President Johnson. The amendments are expected to go to Capitol Hill this week. Nixon plans to cut about four billion dollars from the Johnson proposals. Most of the cuts would be made in domestic spending — a move dictated at least in part by administration desires to stem inflation. The budget proposals will be among the first administration plans to go to Congress as it returns from Easter vacation.

Nuclear Weather Eye Up

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. — A new weather satellite has been rocketed into orbit by the space agency from Vandenberg Air Force Base. The Nimbus Three is the first satellite designed to take a three dimensional look at the earth's weather patterns. The nuclear powered satellite is carrying instruments for seven research projects designed to develop a system for extending weather forecasts by up to two weeks. Confirmation was received that the ship had reached its Polar orbit 686 miles above the earth.

Sirhan Trial To Jury

LOS ANGELES — The 14-week-old murder trial of Sirhan Sirhan was expected to go to the jury yesterday. The only real issue for the jurors will be to decide between a first or second degree murder verdict for the accused assassin of Senator Robert Kennedy.

Long Chicago Trial Ends

CHICAGO — A verdict was expected yesterday in the disorderly conduct trial of 13 persons arrested during last August's Democratic National Convention in Chicago. The five week old trial is the longest one for disorderly conduct in Chicago's history.

NY Teachers Get Police Aid

NEW YORK — Police escorted seven union teachers into Public School 39 in East Harlem again yesterday morning. The teachers, all members of the United Federation of Teachers, have not been given regular class assignments in the school since they reported for work the day after Thanksgiving.

Tax Reform Hearings End

WASHINGTON — The House Ways and Means Committee yesterday wound up its public hearings on tax reforms and went into executive session to begin putting together its proposed reform of Federal tax laws. Recommendations from the Nixon administration are scheduled for presentation today. Included is a proposed ceiling on tax advantages available to high-income tax payers.

Calif. Awaits Big Quake

BERKELEY, Calif. — Domsdayers have been predicting that this is the month for a devastating earthquake to hit California. A temblor did rock the San Francisco Bay area Sunday night, but registered only a mild three-point-three on the ten-point Richter scale. It caused no damage or injury.

Detroit Has New Idea

DETROIT — Detroit police have instituted a new service they call Analysis Anonymous. Under the program parents are encouraged to send pills or other substances they find of their teenagers' to the police for analysis. A police official says the substances are handled on an anonymous basis and those submitting materials are advised of the results by dialing a special police phone number. The official said that 33 of the first 60 samples received by police have proven to be narcotics.

British Claim Finding Some Arms In Anguilla

ANGUILLA (AP) — British police displayed some of the arms they claim have been found on Anguilla during the time they have been searching.

Included was an obsolete British anti-tank rifle that has been out of service with the British Army since 1942.

Islanders are claiming that the British planted the weapons to make it look as if the Anguillans are armed so as to justify their having brought troops into Anguilla in the first place.

According to British officials, the anti-tank rifle was found in the central area of the island during a search and was discovered when one of the searchers happened to notice a piece of blanket sticking out of the ground. A check revealed the weapon, they said. Arms experts with the troops said that the weapon was in good condition and had not been buried too long.

There were a number of sporting type rifles and shotguns displayed but a number of islanders, including council member John Webster, said that they had turned in the weapons when the British had asked for them.

The amnesty for turning in all weapons, ammunition and explosives had been set to expire last week.
