Social Workers Study Govt. Health Insurance

The Social Action Committee and the Committee on Personnel Practices and Standards of the newly formed V.I. Provisional Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers have selected two projects for immediate action, according to an announcement following a recent meeting.

Mrs. Jay Mahoney and Joe Mann, cochairmen of the Committee on Personnel Practices and Standards, are working with members Harry Biske, Lionel Todman, Justine Deegan and Edmond A. Penn to investigate the matter of health insurance, not only for social workers but for all government employees, as well as the subject of equitable salaries based on performance and job specifications.

A subcommittee on juvenile delinquency to be chaired by Clifford Groom was appointed by Social Action Committee chairman Edmond A. Penn. Marion Galloway, Larry Gumbs, Harry Biske, Carolyn Browne, Betty Douma and Hector Villafone will serve on the subcommittee to look into proposed plans and projects designed to alleviate juvenile delinquency. Boys Club Branches Under Study For VI

Errol Sewell, field representative for the southern region of Boy's Clubs of America, is in the Virgin Islands to explore the possibility of establishing BCA branches here.

Boys' Clubs of America offer recreation, education and guidance to boys between the ages of 6 and 18 in an informal setting, with no formalized program, Sewell explained. There is usually one full-time professional staff member to plan and direct the activities, and volunteers from the community act as counselors.

"Boys have the opportunity to develop good citizenship, good physical health, and a sense of responsibility to the community," said Sewell, who was meeting with Edmund Penn, executive secretary of the Youth Commission.

There are now more than 925 clubs throughout the continental United States, with a membership of almost a million boys. Thousands of volunteers offer their time and resources to the program, which generally is centered in an easily-accessible building open every day after school and in the evenings, and all day Saturday throughout the year. Community leaders make up the board of directors, which sets general policy under the guidelines and with the assistance of the national organization.

★ Governor Evans in a wide-ranging Friday night radio and television address outlined his stance on some 13 different subjects in approximately 30 minutes. In his report to the populace the Governor covered a variety of subjects from the budget to water production.

The Governor, whose speech was delayed some three minutes by a power failure in Charlotte Amalie, led off with an explanation of his actions in allowing the 1972 fiscal year budget, as passed by the Senate, to become law without his signature.

Anguilla Talks Resumed

By The Associated Press
 BASSETERRE, St. Kitts -- Joseph Godber, Minister of State at the Foreign and Commonwealth Office in London, arrived here Friday and motored directly to a private meeting with Premier Robert Bradshaw to discuss the Anguilla problem.

Godber, who was expected to leave for Anguilla later, was originally due here Thursday. On Wednesday, Bradshaw, in a local broadcast in reference to the minister's visit, said that the British government has apparently tied up itself in Anguilla by supporting rebellion there and resisting it in Northern Ireland.

Bradshaw further cautioned that any attempt by the British government to interfere with the integrity of his state would be considered an unfriendly act to be resisted by the people.

In Anguilla, Godber is to have further discussions with Ronald Webster, the Anguilla Council, and Commissioner Arthur Watson.

In commenting on the Bradshaw broadcast the opposition Democrat newspaper of Friday stated:

"The Premier talks about his government approaching the British Minister with a mandate from the people, but the facts show that Anguilla took no part in the elections and that the Labor Party was rejected in Nevis. He argues that Britain cannot interfere in the internal affairs of the state, but deliberately ignores that he was the one who begged her to invade Anguilla, and by doing so placed the island squarely into the hands of the British government whose presence and financial assistance are greatly welcomed by the Anguillans.

"Following the return of the Labor Party to power, Bradshaw assumed greater powers and is now Minister of Nevis and Anguilla affairs. This seems to mean that the power of the island councils may be considerably reduced and that the central government is carrying out a policy of autocratic rule."

Man Shot In Fracas At PMP Gardens

"Britain has committed herself to finding a political solution acceptable to the Anguillans and the omens give rise to speculation that it may not be long before they are given their desire."

Cinnamon Bay Sewer System Contract Let

The Department of Interior has awarded a $98,844 contract for completion of water and sewage systems at Cinnamon Bay, St. John, according to Washington Representative, Ron deLugo.

The contract, which was executed by the National Park Service, named Herman H. Neumann of El Cajon, California, as the contractor.

In his radio-TV report to the people on Friday evening, Governor Evans noted that he had "just reviewed the final plans" and that the project "is up for Federal approval and should be put out for bids within the next six to eight months."

The Federal participation is 55 percent of the approximate total
